

Licella Arboleda is a higher education administrator in the Connecticut State Community College (CSCC) system. Prior to her current role as the Regional Advising Director (RAD) for the Capital East Region, Licella spent over 8 years at Gateway Community College in a variety of roles. Those roles include Student Retention Specialist, Counselor, Director of Counseling and Wellness and Director of the Family Economic Security Program (FESP). Licella is passionate about the student population community college's serve and has dedicated her career to amplifying the student voice. Licella is currently a doctoral candidate in New York University's Leadership and Innovation program. Her research interest is first-generation students of color in the Connecticut Community College system and is slated to defend her dissertation in July 2021.